Jupiter, Our Brightest Star.

The brightest star in all the heavens this summer night, without one exception, is Jupiter, the planet which shines at all night in its path across the southern sky, setting in the morning.

It is a planet and not a star like the others in the sky.

Our sun, you of course know, is really a star just like all the other little twinkling stars only near to us so we feel its heat, and its light is so great that it puts out all the light of the other stars. It is only ninety-million miles or so from the earth. (It would be quite a little stroll before breakfast to make the journey.)

At times Venus shines with greater lustre than Jupiter but she never shines all night for she stays too near the sun to be seen long. She follows him at evening and precedes him in the morning but a few hours.

Good eyes have been able to find Venus in the day time but it is a difficult thing to do.

Jupiter is twelve years in going around the sun while the earth only takes one year and Venus is only 225 days in making the journey.

So in twelve years from this summer Jupiter will again be seen in the same place as now, reigning king of all the summer stars of night just as he was ruler once over all the other gods.

Although Jupiter is so long in traveling around the sun, it spins on its axis, astronomers tell us, at the astounding rate of little more than ten hours.

Jupiter is 87 million in diameter while the earth, well, every school child knows how much that is.

Look in the southern sky in the evening and you cannot fail of seeing Jupiter.

He is at present in the constellation Scorpio, the Scorpion. The Scorpion has a very bright red eye which you can see, or you can if Jupiter does not hide it.

Following close to the Scorpion towards the east comes the archer, Sagittarius. He is mixed up some in the Milky way but can be seen very plainly, his drawn bow pointing towards the Scorpion.

Later on in the night comes prancing in the same path as the Scorpion and the archer, the goat, Capricorn.

So if I should keep on around the sky we should find it full of strange creatures and characters named in the far fathomless past by people the name of whose country is even now forgotten.

"Teach me your mood, O patient star! Who climb each night the ancient sky, Leaving on space no shade, no scars, No trace of age, no need to die!"

GEORGE J. BARROWS.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. This inflammation must be removed and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by local treatment. Send for circulars free.

Robert Carter, Well-Known Cartoonist, in New Position.

Robert Carter, the famous cartoonist, and one of the cleverest newspaper artists that New York has produced, has taken up a permanent residence in Boston.

While speaking of this change to a correspondent of this paper, Mr. Carter said: "My work in New York has been very congenial, and, as you probably know, there is but one New York to a New Yorker. I take my hat off to Boston in a great many respects, nevertheless. My work here in Boston allows much greater scope than it did in New York and I shall seek to develop my head-quarters here for some time to come."

Robert Carter at one time worked exclusively for the Hearst papers, and scarcely a day passed when one of his rugged and forceful sketches did not appear in these papers. At the present time this well-known cartoonist is giving his time solely to The Boston Journal, and his political cartoons are daily attracting a great deal of attention all over the country.

The presence of Robert Carter on the staff of The Boston Journal gives this paper the distinction of having two of the leading cartoonists in New England, for the sporting cartoons of "Sid" Greene are well known to all sport-loving New Englanders.

"Sid" Greene has been aptly called the "Mark Twain of Cartoonists," and the clean humor of his drawings, free from knocks of every sort, has given him high rank both among newspaper men and sporting men throughout the East.

West Paris Notes.

Our people, in fact all doing business at the G. T. R. station, without one exception, are expressing their deep regrets at the management of the G. T. R. in removing our popular station agent, W. W. Gardner, to Bryant Pond.

Mr. Gardner has been one of our best agents and citizens, "kind, obliging and his favorite with our people, but what is our loss is Bryant Pond's gain. Mr. Gardner has resided here for the past two years and he and his family are very much liked.

A great change has taken place here in the last 43 years. At that time there was but one store and a grist mill, one church built principally by the late Lineous and Eleazer Marshall with occasionally itinerant preaching. The old Dr. Russell settled here, bridged his time in the practice of medicine and farming to make a living for himself and family and the doctor who located here afterwards was told that he must connect farming with his practice in order to make a living.

The cemetery had grown up to weeds and bushes and was badly neglected. Every person, owner of a lot in the cemetery was supposed to care for their lots. At that time, and even later, decoration days, some 45 to 50 veterans of late Civil war would assemble at the church and form in line and by the tap of the drum would march to the cemetery to decorate the few soldiers' graves that he buried there. This year, there were only five left to perform that solemn duty and the silent hand points to their last resting place now. Of the residents of that time only six are now left.

At the present time this village has three churches, four settled ministers, two first-class public halls beside the Masonic, Odd Fellow and Grange halls, Five groceries and variety stores, one first-class drug store, one hardware store, one meat and fish market, jeweler shop, two livery stables—one with a large automobile connected with their stable. Three large manufacturing establishments and last—but not least, three doctors, doing good business and without the use of a farm.

But there is one thing that is quite suggestive, the cemetery association has sprung into new life, have bought one or more acres of land connected with the cemetery and have employed a man to look after and improve and beautify the grounds. With a casket maker, four ministers and three doctors, it looks as if they were looking for an increase of business. This need not cast any reflection on our doctors for we have as good physicians here as can be found in the country.

We have no lawyers and in fact don't need them for it is seldom a place of this size where you will find the people so harmonious.

The late fire at the Wardswell & Irish Die-block mill has set our people to thinking for a better preparation for a fire.

Thursday, June 13, was a cold day, and people driving into the place were clothed in fur coats and mittens. The late frost has demolished most of the gardens and killed the large acreage of sweet corn of Fred Berry. Rick of Rick's Almanac predicts a killing frost for September 12.

Bald Heads.
More Women are Bald Than Men, Says Authority.

This is a startling statement but it's true according to an article published in a standard magazine this year.

One thing is certain PARISIAN SAGE will surely prevent baldness by stopping the hair from falling out, but it won't grow hair after the head is bald.

Ladies, look after your hair, destroy the dandruff germs with PARISIAN SAGE and dandruff will disappear. It stops scalp itch over night and is guaranteed to be the most refreshing, refined and agreeable hair dressing that can be obtained. Sold by Noyes Drug Store and druggists all over America for 50 cents.

"My hair was falling out, and I was troubled with itching scalp. I received no benefit until I tried PARISIAN SAGE."—Mrs. George Thunders, R. F. D. 5, Marshall, Mich. 24-26.

C. W. York and wife with their daughter, Geraldine York, attended the circus at Lewiston.

Walter Lord and family have visited his father, J. F. Lord, at West Pownal. They went in his new auto.

C. W. York is doing considerable repairing to the inside of his house, painting, papering, putting in new windows, etc.

Walter Lord and wife recently took his mother, Mrs. Lydia Lord, and E. K. Shedd of Sisseton to Portland in their new auto.

Ernest Holt and family of Locke's Mills visited at Merritt Sawin's, Sunday night and Sunday. They spent Sunday night with Mr. Holt's father, Addison Holt, at North Waterford.

Geraldine and Annie York attended the ball given at Fryeburg, Saturday afternoon, between the North Waterford nine and the Fryburgs, resulting in a victory to the North Waterford 3 to 10.

Hazel Sawin attended the graduation exercises at North Bridgton, Wednesday, with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Millett, of Waterford. Their little son "Mowat" visited his grandfather, Merritt Sawin, while they were away.

The Albany circle was entertained at James Kimball's, Thursday. A large attendance and a fine time is reported. Some fine music was furnished in the evening by the family and several others on the piano, flute, violin, banjo and mandolin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hersey were through here selling tomato plants and other things. They have a specialty of raising tomato plants and sell hundreds of dozens every spring, while they have peppers, pansies, asters, heliotrope, verbenas and other things as side issues, and have made great success of the business.

Henry Sawin is at home from the hospital. Harry Sawin went after him, Saturday, with an auto and took him to his house at North Waterford, where he stayed until Monday, when he was moved to his home here. Mr. Sawin has improved in some ways but not on the whole as much as his friends had hoped he would.

Paint Now

If you ought to have painted last year and waited for paint to come down, how much do you think you made?

You'll buy an extra gallon this year. There's $5 or $6 for paint and labor. You think you won't, but you will; you can't stretch paint.

It is always so: the longer you wait, the more paint and wages. Besides what paint is for. What is it for?

The elderly people were invited to occupy the first table and the younger ones must wait as was the custom in olden times, but we are glad to say we heard no grumbling, and in a remarkably short time all were well supplied and then were entertained for the rest of the evening, and a late one at that, with music of the best from instruments. There was a piano, violin, flute and banjo, all in the hands of experts. When the music ceased each seemed to feel well paid and started home, without doubt, wishing to meet there again.

MAKES THE NATION GASP.

The awful list of injuries on a Fourth of July staggers humanity. Set over against it, however, is the wonderful healing by Bucken's Arnica Salve, of thousands, who suffered from burns, cuts, bruises, bullet wounds or explosions. Its quick healer of boils, ulcers, eczema, sore lips or piles. 25c at The Noyes Drug Store.

DRUNKENNESS

IS A DISEASE AND WE CAN CURE IT.

Most men who drink to excess do so because they cannot help it; they are controlled by a craving which is practically irresistible. This is a diseased condition, but can be and is promptly relieved.

How? By taking the KEELEY TREATMENT AT A KEELEY INSTITUTE, the only place to get it and the only treatment which cures alcoholic and drug inebriety.

The "KEELEY CURE" removes the craving for liquor and drugs and leaves the man master of himself. The system is rational, it embodies no suffering or claims, no absurd or preposterous sickness are made; the hypodermic method of treatment is constantly used, which, according to all reputable physicians, is safe, painless, prompt, and efficient.

The "KEELEY CURE" does not nauseate a patient and no attempt is made to cure inebriates by creating a disgust for liquor. A treatment depending upon nauseants or emetics for a cure can never be anything but a failure because the patient will soon learn that it is not the liquor which nauseates him but that he has been made the victim of a trick; the diseased condition not being relieved the patient naturally goes back to liquor.

The diseased condition is produced by from five to thirty years constant or periodical use of liquor cannot be cured by a few days of nausea and emesis. Such methods are irrational, brutal, and sometimes permanently injurious.

The "KEELEY CURE" has restored over 400,000 men and women who were addicted to liquors and drugs; it is the pioneer in this work and has many imitators, but no rivals or competitors as far as RESULTS are concerned.

If you have need to take treatment for the liquor or drug addiction, investigate the "KEELEY CURE," look for some thing that is substantial and has stood the test of time. Where health and happiness are concerned you cannot afford to experiment or take chances, and for that reason you cannot afford to take any treatment but the "KEELEY."

All correspondence is strictly confidential and all inquiries answered in plain sealed envelopes.

No. XIII.

Down the Road from the David Hill Farm—Memories in the Capt. Hutchins Home—Trouble with Twins—A Revolutionary Story.

Continuing my tramp from the David Hill farm down the road, I stopped for a few moments' chat with James Hardy, an old time friend, at his pleasant home. Then on past the pleasant farm house of Mrs. Ward Hutchins and her son past the fine old stately mansion of the late Capt. Henry Hutchins of whom I shall write later, and to the home of Fred Messervy, where I enjoyed a pleasant half hour's visit with his father, James Messervy, one of my old time Fryeburg friends. His first wife was Sarah Hardy, daughter of David Hardy, by whom he had several children. After her death he married for his second wife the widow of Richard Colby, who died some years ago. One later trip called and found him pulling and stacking beans back of the house, and where I obtained a fine snap-shot picture of him, which I greatly prize, as it was but a few months later that I read of his sudden death in the columns of the Advertiser.

My next stop was at the Edwin L. Walker home, where I enjoyed a pleasant visit with Elmer Walker and his wife Emma, nee Ballard; where I also met Prof. Melvin Ballard of Washington, D. C., who for many years has spent his summer vacations here near the home where he spent his happy boyhood days. While there I also enjoyed another pleasant visit with Melvin Andrews, brother of Henry and Calista Andrews, and who was also one of my younger West Fryeburg schoolmates and who was working for the Walkers.

Melvin has traveled extensively. He has lived in Massachusetts, Ohio, Wisconsin, the Red River valley of the north, along the Minnesota and North Dakota line, and in California. He has seen much both of the bitter and the sweet of life, and now in the 59th year of his life he seemed to be enjoying life living in the old home land and amongst the friends of his boyhood days. I wish now to go back to the Capt. Henry Hutchins home, and delve for awhile amongst the almost forgotten history of the past. In the fifties and early sixties, in my frequent trips about and by the buggy route from Fryeburg and Lovell I often came to the fine old stand of buildings and the long hay and cattle barn have been kept in good repair, and with the lovely lawn are much the same as when I first remember them fifty odd years ago. Mr. Hutchins was an extensive farmer and just when that one season he broke up a thirty acre pasture and sowed it all to small grain, mostly oats if I remember right.

He kept a small store just across the road from the house, and there that I most frequently saw him. He was a tall, broad shouldered, fine looking man. In politics he was a lifelong democrat and was always one of the leaders of his party, and he was counted as one of the solid men of the town. Of his children I can remember the boys and knew but little of them. Henry was a lawyer and practiced his profession for a while at Lovell village.

I remember that one cold winter day I was at the old fishing grounds at the mouth of the mill brook, trying my luck at catching smelts through the ice, and that same day Henry and Seth Hutchins and another man whose name I do not remember came also to try their luck at the fishing hole. I do not remember that we caught any fish but the village three brought along a flask to help keep them warm, and on the return trip as I trailed along behind them along the narrow path through the deep snow to the George Farrington barn, where they had their horse stabled, it was quite amusing to watch the crooked tracks, and see the calm dignity with which one at least of the party tried to carry himself, and that one was not Henry.

Uncle Isaac Andrews of Lovell Center was quite noted amongst other things for his love of law suits. His last law suit was with Porter Keniston, who lived up near Cushman's pond. Porter bought of Uncle Isaac a pair of oxen for $12.00. After the trade had been made mother remarked that the oxen should always be bled twice, and Porter replied that if both had twins he would pay a dollar more. As usual both had twins, but it often happens one of them died, and Porter refused to pay the extra dollar, claiming that he had said that if they had twins and they all lived. Uncle Isaac was not to be cheated out of his rights in that way, and went to Porter's place and took one of the oxen out of the place and brought her home, and was promptly arrested for stealing. Uncle Isaac retained D. R. Hastings and Mr. Keniston employed Henry Hutchins, esq., both of whom lived at Lovell village at the time and a big legal fight seemed about to begin.

Neither of the contestants owned a horse at that time and each of them made several trips on foot to the village to consult their lawyers. The fight was finally settled out of court by both parties reluctantly agreeing to arbitrate and the two lawyers agreed to settle the fight. They decided that Uncle Isaac should give up the sheep and that Porter should pay over to Uncle Isaac the one dollar promised. This Porter declared he would not do and Jacob Andrews paid the dollar out of his own pocket to his father, and thus this famous case was settled. I do not think that the lawyers charged any fee for their services. No doubt each felt richly repaid for their time by the fun occasioned by the childish whims of these two old and cranky men.

Ward Hutchins I first met in the summer of 1893. I found out that he was a brother Odd Fellow and several times that summer I enjoyed short visits with him. Last summer I met one and I think both of his sons upon the streets of West Fryeburg. They were tall, manly looking men and reminded me of their grandfather Hutchins. I never met. I do not remember even to have met. I go by being thrown from a buggy near Western's Bridge.

Pascal, known in the neighborhood as Judge, I presume owing to his short state and venerable appearance was, I think, the youngest of the boys. Four years ago I met him several times in the neighborhood. A paralytic shock and the infirmities of old age were creeping upon him, and it was with difficulty that he made his accustomed calls on the old nearby neighbors. He loved the old home and its old associations, and clung to it until life's close, and is now resting with many of his kindred and old friends and neighbors in the quiet peaceful cemetery near his home.

When I was a boy I used to hear my mother tell of old Capt. Hutchins, one of the pioneer settlers of Fryeburg and a veteran of the war of the Revolution. When a girl she said she had often heard him tell of one of his hair breadth escapes from hostile Indians. He was out scouting in the woods alone and not far from camp when he ran upon seven Indians. He knew that nothing but a stratagem could save him. And he was equal to the occasion. He yelled in his loud commanding way, "Hurrah boys! we've got them, we've surrounded them!" And by changing his position often and making the Indians believe he had surrounded them, he made them throw down their arms, and marched the entire seven into camp as prisoners of war. Mother said that when he told his story he cried like a child.

While in Fryeburg I tried to find out something about this Capt. Hutchins, but did not meet with much success until one day while at the cemetery, Byron Hutchins directed me to one of the far corners and I found two old time stone headstones on one of which was the following inscription: "Capt. Nathaniel Hutchins—Died June 10th, 1832, aged 89 years," and below, "He served in the French war 5 years, and was a commanding officer in the Revolutionary war, and was in the battle of Bunker Hill, in 1775." The other headstone to the left has this, "Meditable died, 1820, aged 76 years." Another headstone to the right has this inscription: "Henry D. Hutchins, died 1852 aged 78."

In this connection I wish to quote again from the life of Dr. Albert Colby, written by himself about 1875. About that time I had some correspondence with Mr. Colby and he sent me this book. I have just resurrected it from amongst my relics, and I find much of interest about my mother and other families.

"My earliest remembrance is of Revolution heroes. Our home was surrounded by soldiers of the American Revolution. Our nearest neighbor was Captain Nathaniel Hutchins, a captain in the war for the independence of our country, and a lieutenant in the previous French war, and when the war of 1812 broke out, he had a major's commission sent him, but being bowed by the infirmities of old age, and unable again to participate in the war, he was sent home. He sat down and wept with an exceeding bitter cry, like Esau weeping for his lost blessing."

His granddaughter, Matilda, who most frequently cared for the wants of his declining years, was a noble maiden when I was a child, and she was one of my especial patron saints. I remember her and my father's two youngest sisters, Betsy and Hannah, as three angels all ways doing good, and I never heard any one of them speak a word upon any subject that I would have changed, and I loved them better than any person then living except my mother, but I remember when a child, during a severe sickness of my mother, of praying to God honestly and earnestly to spare her life and take mine.

Matilda gave me the first present that I ever remember, and she taught me to speak pieces and to "hurrah for Jackson." She and my mother were always as one of the solid men of the town. Of his children I can remember the boys and knew but little of them. Henry was a lawyer and practiced his profession for a while at Lovell village. I remember that one cold winter day I was at the old fishing grounds at the mouth of the mill brook, trying my luck at catching smelts through the ice, and that same day Henry and Seth Hutchins and another man whose name I do not remember came also to try their luck at the fishing hole.
